

VIKINGS

HOMEWORK PROJECT

All children should read daily at home – either to an adult or by themselves. Reading non-fiction books and audio books are great ways to engage your child in reading.

In addition, all children in Year 5 should know their timetables but if they aren't yet confident, they should practise them regularly until they become fluent. TTRS or 'Topmarks Maths' are fun, online ways of practising tables.

We are also sending home some spellings and handwriting sheets to practice – mastering these is essential for progression in UKS2.

Choose one of the options below to deepen your understanding of our topic

Recreate a Viking artefact, then explain its use to the class

Create a map showing the Viking routes and plotting when and where they discovered or raided key places.

Write a diary of someone whose village was raided by the Vikings...or of a Viking raider!

Create a Viking meal or a Viking game...and bring it in to share!
